

Avalon Legal Becomes Newest RelativityOne Certified Partner

BUFFALO, NY – June 11, 2020 – Today, Avalon Legal, a litigation support services provider specializing in eDiscovery, digital forensics and cybersecurity, announced that they are now a RelativityOne Certified Partner and will begin offering the RelativityOne platform to their legal clients. With RelativityOne, Avalon Legal can better protect client data by storing it in a single, secure SaaS platform that spans the full breadth of eDiscovery – from legal hold all the way through to production.

Avalon Legal’s decision to upgrade to RelativityOne was due to the product’s ability to deliver a comprehensive solution that addresses multiple eDiscovery challenges by providing all the functionality law firms need in a secure SaaS solution. RelativityOne gives users the scalability, redundancy, and international reach of the Microsoft Azure cloud, as well as the massive amount of resources Microsoft dedicates to innovating and securing their cloud platform. Since RelativityOne is uniquely built for SaaS, users can achieve even more with a solution that takes full advantage of the cloud and the full investment that Relativity devotes to creating, securing, and innovating a true SaaS product.

“Our goal is to provide the best to our clients and RelativityOne allows us to do just that,” says JP Midgley, CEO of Avalon. “The solution is optimized to solve customer problems faster with streamlined navigation and automation. Several of our team members were certified in preparation of our launch to ensure we offer the highest level of service.”

“With RelativityOne now added to Avalon Legal’s toolkit of cutting-edge technology, their experienced and dedicated eDiscovery specialists are even more well-positioned to help customers handle the biggest cases and navigate the most complex workflows,” says George Orr, Vice President of Customer Success and Support at Relativity. “We look forward to expanding upon our partnership with Avalon Legal and supporting them as they leverage our collaborative, cloud-based platform to set their customers up for success.”

With the secure and powerful RelativityOne product, Avalon Legal will be able to further leverage their eDiscovery expertise to provide more value and better results for their clients. Additionally, moving to the cloud gives Avalon Legal the added scalability needed in today’s data-centric society and allows them to build expertise and IP on top of one connected, global solution. RelativityOne also gives Avalon Legal users the flexibility to pick and choose solutions from the Relativity App Hub that best suit their unique workflows across different stages of the Electronic Discovery Reference Model – and solve data challenges outside of eDiscovery.
